

Missed Opportunities?

In the middle of difficulty lies opportunity. ~ Albert Einstein

I'm not going to rehash how difficult this last year has been. My thought (and question) for this month is ... what opportunities have presented themselves in the midst of all the difficulties this past year?

This last year has offered me the opportunity to improve the communication and relationship with my two teenage daughters. I don't think I would have had the same experience without us being stuck at home. So grateful with this opportunity as the relationships are such a joy and blessing.

Have there been opportunities showing themselves that normally would not have presented themselves without the crazy circumstances of last year?

Was there something you didn't immediately recognize as an opportunity and has now turned into one? Is there something right now in your life that is, in fact, an opportunity to move forward, get a new job, or create a great new situation and it's time to go for it?

Stay strong. Stay healthy. Stay self-caring.

Hugs, Rita 😊